

Message

From: DeSantis, Mike [desantis.mike@epa.gov]
Sent: 6/29/2021 1:35:25 PM
To: Lytle, Darren [Lytle.Darren@epa.gov]

There were some peaks in an XRD pattern that he sent us that he couldn't identify (maybe Peotone, since there were definite other Pb minerals, from an LSL). The peaks lined up really well with a lead molybdate (it probably was wulfenite). Problem was that element analyses they had at the time didn't show any evidence of moly. Also, there seemingly wasn't any moly in the in the bulk water. It was a mystery.